SIXTH WARD REPUBLICANS. Nearly a Hundred Join a New Lincoln

League Club. The Republicans of the Sixth ward met at Wright's Hall, on West New York street, last night, for the purpose of organizing a Sixth-ward Lincoln League club. There were about one hundred present and all were of the one idea that the ward needed such an organization to concentrate the vote on election day. The constitution was read and adopted. Mr. Harry Smith, who was the most active in the organization of the club, was elected president. Two vice presidents, T. E. Potter and O. P. Ensley, were elected. For recording and corresponding secretaries, E. J. Walker and L. G. Rothschild, respectively, were elected. D. W. Grubbs was chosen as the club treasurer. After the election of officers, informal speeches were called for and were responded to by a number of short but thought-conveying talks, R. O. Hawkins, the first speaker, voiced the sentiments the majority of those present in say ing that the Republicans lacked only ward organization to lead them on to victory. This ward organization would enable the members to induce doubtful voters to come to the club meetings. A number of other speakers followed, some stating that the organization of too many clubs would probably injure the party vote rather than help it. The reaons for such arguments were based on the fact that a number of clubs had been organized only to be abandoned at the end of a few weeks. But such arguments were held not to apply to the voters of the Sixth ward as there was no organization in the ward and that the members of the club were too enthusiastic to allow the interests of the club to be forgotten. After adjournment those present enrolled themselves on the club's membership list. The club will meet at Wright's Hall every Sat-

Castleton Lincoln League. The Lincoln League Club, of Castleton, held an enthusiastic meeting yesterday afternoon, at which Warwick Ripley, president of the State Lincoln League, was the principal speaker. Mr. Ripley in main reviewed the pending topics of the day, the tariff question coming in for most of the discussion. He spoke for one hour and a half, during which time he held the interest of all present. There were a number of Democrats present and they expressed hemselves as being greatly impressed by his remarks. The club revised its organiza-

Governor Matthews Issues a Requisition for the Wily Swindlers.

Indiana justice is again reaching out for a quartet of bad men. Columns have been published about the swindling operations of Lewis Ludlum, Frank L. Smith, Peter Conlisk and Cameron Bostetter, who have worked the gold brick, green goods, farm buying and other fascinating games of similar bad character on the unsophisticated throughout the country. They have carried away a great deal of good Indiana money and numerous attempts have been made to land them in the penitentiary, but they have always slipped through the meshes of the law in some way or other. They have had money, influence and friends enough to pull them out of many a hole. More than a year ago they worked Jacob Cott, a rich Hancock county farmer, for $4,500 on the gold brick racket, getting away with the cash. Since that time requisitions have been issued for them in half a dozen Eastern States, but they have always managed to cross the line into another State and to keep out of the law's clutches through the timely warning of friends.

It looks now, however, as if they were to cover at last for they are in jail it Pittsburg and Governor Matthews yesterday issued a requisition on Governor Pat-hopes to have this smooth quartet of swindlers in the Greenfield jail before many hours. They are the "big four" in their line and the police everywhere are greatly nterested in their career. William F. Gunter is wanted at Muncle on a charge of embezzling $375 from Emil Wulschner & Son, of this city, who have a branch there. Gunter was in their employ as manager of the Muncie store and upon the discovery of his alleged stealing, fled to the far West. Some time afterward Governor Matthews Issued a requisition on the Governor of Nebraska for his return, it being learned that he was out there. He evaded the authorities, however, and got across the line. A few days ago word was received from the authorities at Grant City, Mo., that Gunter was under arrest there, so yesterday another requisition was issued for him and he will be brought back to Muncie early this week. The alleged crime was committed Sept. 20, 1893, and it is charged that he sold planes and pocketed the money.

A VALOROUS BRUCE FALLS.

Shelbyville's Marshal Comes to Town with a Jags .

Word was received at the police station yesterday afternoon that Ed Salla was in the custody of Shelbyville authorities, and detectives Thornton and McGuff were sent to bring the prisoner to this city. Salla is the man who relieved the hannery of Charles Antrum, living four miles east of the city, of eleven turkeys on Saturday, Dec. 3. He escaped for the time being, but his whereabouts were made known to Shelbyville authorities by a woman who had received a letter from Salla. Marshal Bruce, of Shelbyville, thinking not sufficient to keep the prisoner from escaping, resolved to accompany them to this city, and in case of an emergency lend them his assistance. While on the incoming train, he bethought himself of his wondrous deeds of valor and proceeded to further make himself happy by imbibing freely of strong drinks. The consequence was that when he reached this city his legs and feet were very uncertain in their Getting off the train, he lunged along

In the fall he had reerived an ugly gash across the bridge of his nose, that bled freely. He managed to reach the police station, where he washed the blood away and rendered himself presentable. This is not the first time that Indianapolis has been honored with such

HIGHLY ELEVATING SPORT.

Another Ratting Main Without Any Specia! Features.

A rattling main, with no special features, was given at the corner of Blake and North streets last night, in which there were four contesting dogs. The entry fee was 50 cents; and the dog killing ten rats in the shortest space of time was awarded the purse, $2. The results were as follows: Doc Stewart's fox terrier Jack, 1:12: Charles Williams's Kate, 1:13; Bennet Campbell's Dott, 1:17; W. F. Brill's Scotch terrier Muggins, The prize was awarded to Doc Stewart, but the time was questioned by Wilagreed that each should enter their dog nother contest, and pay the owner of the rats 312 cents per head for the rats killed. On the second contest Kate killed eight rats in 1:01 and Jack the same num in 1:31. Then Dott was pitted against the same number and dispatched them in fifty-nine seconds.

Manager Sharsig Has Signed Eight Men for the Local Team.

Manager Sharsig, of the Indianapolis Baseball Club, has been hustling and, up to the present time, he has eight good players under contract, with several other good men under consideration. It is expected that, within the next few weeks, the full roll of players will have been completed. The latest and most important engagement of last week was the engagement of James McTammany, who will captain the team, and who, for several years, has been recognized as one of the leading outfielders of the profession. His first professional engagement was with the Lancaster, Pa., club. The following five seasons found him playing great ball with the Brooklyn, N. Y., team. Since that time he has been playing with the Kansas City, the Columbus, O., the Athletic Club, of Philadelphia and the York, Pa., teams, the last one of which he was engaged with the past season. Several of the best talent of this city have applied for positions, among them. William Sowders, who is willing to undergo a trial without pay. The contract between the club and Curt Welch, the old Cincinnati player, has not been closed as reported. Manager Sharsig, in a letter to F. C. Golt, said that he thought that the general strength of the players now signed was not known. He added that any one of those already signed could, if released, secure positions with any of the National League clubs. He was willing to say that the present club will put up a better game than any club that the city has ever had. He declared that he would he greatly mistaken if the club did not win the championship laurels. It was true that the other clubs were signing strong players, but there were none in the Western League that could play better ball than the players under his contract.

THE SINFUL STOVE PIPE.

This Time It Causes William Jones to Belabor His Spouse.

The usual quietness of the vicinity of Railroad and Michigan streets was broken rather suddenly yesterday afternoon by the loud cries of a woman who ran down the street in a bewildering fashion, crying for the police. Patrolman Deshong happened along at this time and, after quieting the woman, was told that the woman's husband had beaten her in a most cruel manner. She said that she and her husband were putting some pipe on to a stove, and they disagreed as to who was bossing the job. Finally, the husband, seeing that he was getting the worst of the argument, began to pound his spouse in a vigorous manner and she fled from the house. Deshong proceeded to the woman's home, at No. 288 Railroad street. He found all the entrances securely fastened and every indication that the husband, William Jones, had fled. The policeman returned several times, but he could not get entrance to the house. Returning about 6 o'clock he forced an en-trance and found Jones within. Jones was promptly arrested. The parties are colored.

ORDERED FIRE ESCAPES.

Board of Safety Will Have Them Placed on Several Blocks. The Board of Public Safety yesterday ordered two fire escapes placed upon the Windsor Block by M. H. Spades. He was ordered to place one at the north end and one at the south end of the building and make an opening in the wall of the fourth floor to permit a free passage way. He was also ordered to rehang the doors so that they would swing outwards. E. F. Claypool was ordered to put a fire escape upon the Blackford Block, at the corner of Meridian and Washington streets. the fourth floor of which building is occupied by a business college. The owner of the Stubbins Hotel, on South Illinois street, was ordered to rehang the doors of the hotel so that they should swing outward.

FAVORS CHEAPER FARES.

Reported that the Mayor Is Trying to Change the City Company's Charter. A rumor has been current for some time that Mayor Denny was seeking to find some way in which to compel a reduction of street car fares to three cents and bring about a modification of the City Railway Company's franchise so as to effect that change. The Mayor is out of the city, but his secretary, W. R. Holloway, says that he has heard the Mayor speak of an effort to bring about this reduction. He said the Mayor thought that the Sullivan administration had been taken by surprise by the magnitude of the City company's offer and had hurried the matter through without a due consideration of the question from al points. The Mayor is of the opinion that it of vastly greater importance to the masses to have cheap fares than it is that the city should obtain a large income from a percentage of the gross receipts. officers of the City company do not believe that any effort will be made to modify their franchise. They say that the Mayor is a lawyer and, as such, recognizes that the city is bound to the company by a contract that cannot be modified without their con-

Died of Heart Trouble. Andrew Base, a married man, living with his wife at No. 58 Tremont avenue, Haughville, was found dead about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was discovered by his wife in an out house where he had fallen to the floor. He had been dead some time. Coroner Beck was notlified and began an investigation. Base was fiftyeight years old and was apparently in the best of health when he left the house about 11 o'clock yesterday morning. He did not return to dinner, and his wife spent two hours searching for him before she happened to come upon his body. The dead until yesterday was an employe Malleable fron works. On Friday night he received notice that he would not be needed for a few weeks and this fact suggested that he may have become despondent. It is the belief of the police and coroner that the house of Edward Thornton, at No. 360 Blake street, was robbed on the night of the supposed asphyxiation, As stated yesterday morning, there is missing from the house the sum of $40 belonging to Chornton, which his wife avers that he had on retiring Wednesday night. Relief Committeee Will Refer Them to the Charity Organization.

At the meeting of the Commercial Club relief committee yesterday afternoon, the question of feeding those families who are unable to perform service in payment for their supplies was brought up. There are dependent upon the food market nearly three hundred families represented by widows. The relief committee can find no suitable employment for these women and do not feel that the relief fund should be drawn upon by this class when there are other means at hand for suporting them. In many families, where the mother is at the head of the home, there are grown sons who are able to perform the work assigned to them, and in these cases the market will continue to furnish supplies. Hereafter women without husbands and who have no male representative in the family will be sent to the charity organization at Ply-mouth Church, where arrangements are being made to care for them. Last week it required nearly fifteen hundred dollars to operate the food market. Manager Dill states that the Garfield Park | the Granger store. This was an error, work had the tendency of increasing the number of applicants daily. The work is preferable to employment on the street, and many who have heretofore managed to live without the aid of the committee because of the character of work required, now come forward and apply for help. During the temporary freeze work on the park has been suspended, but will be opened as soon as the weather will permit. The committee proposes to send 125 men each day to the street commissioner to be put to work at his own discretion. any person in need. Claim She Is a Fraud.

Patrolman Kanaus arrested Lena Williams, last night, on the vagrancy charge. The prisoner is a good looking, well dressed woman of twenty-three, who says that she lives at No. 270 Columbia avenue. Late yesterday evening complaint was made at police headquarters that a young woman was fraudulently soliciting aid on East Washington street. She was in company with a young man who would wait on the outside until she interviewed the occupants of the house where they stopped. cash contribution was usually given, which the woman would at once turn over to the man. Patrolman Kanaus was sent out to investigate the couple and found Williams woman on the corner of Washington and Alabama streets. The man who was with her fled at the approach of wept profusely and denied that she was guilty of wrong-doing. She claimed that he was on her way home from the market when arrested.

To Establish a Wash House. The Charity Organization Society is preparing a "wash house," to be located near the Friendly Inn. The purpose of the enterprise is to give employment to those women who are willing to earn a living by washing. The new plan, it is thought, will be of vast benefit in furnishing employment to the women sent to the organization from the Commercial Club. Custom will be solicited from all parts of the city.

Ludierous Incident in Which an Actor Took a Part. It is not very often that the side gates at the Union Station are found to be too small for the passage of an outgoing passenger, but the rarity was furnished last night in the person of John Stewart, who played the role of one of the "Two Johns" at the Park Theater last week. Stewart had been sitting in the waiting room dozing and half conscious to his surroundings. The remainder of the company had passed out to the train, and naturally supposed that Stewart would soon follow them. But he did not, and only awoke to the realization of his situation as the last announcement of the train's departure was made by the caller. He heard the call and then gave a public illustration of his hustling abilities. Through the main isle he swept and, with grip in hand, he motioned aside the crowd and ran down the steps to the large gate. The watchman was heartless in his refusal to allow Stewart to pass through this gate and told him that he must show his ticket and pass throng smaller gates. He caught sight of the train trembling with motion from the jar of coupling, and he attempted to rush past the gatekeeper, but it was not the latter's fault that he failed to get through. Stewart was not made to get through an opening of two and one-half feet A large number of people that were on their way to their nearly due trains frantically shouted for him to get out of the road "Would to God that I could," shouted the man of great avoirdupois as he struggled and tugged to get free. He cast his eyes at the train so near but yet so far, and saw the conductor give the signal to go ahead. The buttons were fast decreasing in numbers from Stewart's clothes and this rendered the situation doubly alarming at least for him. He was wedged and wedged fast and there was but one remedy and that to bump him through. That was the somewhat hasty but unfortunate decision of the crowd in the rear who were frantically awaiting his egress lest their trains should depart. The crowd collected into one compact body and swept on toward the luckless fat man, headed by a stalwart countryman. Stewart went from his wedge like lightning, and as he spilled himself on the platform he audibly murmured to the crowd, "Never touched me." The traveling public was all attention and now witnesse the sprinting abilities of the unfavored actor. It was easy to be seen that he would never catch the train, and shouts and whistling of great magnitude were necessary to attract the attention of the conductor, and this accomplished, the train was stopped. Stewart threw himself on the platform in an exhausted condition. His twin actor John," appeared, and with a bland smile assured him that a bad penny was always turning up; and that, "John, that's the way with you."

He Would.
